SOCIETY

By ALINE THOMPSON

Of paramount importance on the calendar for tomorrow night is the soiree to be given at the Hotel Marion. The affair will mark the formal opening of the attractive new annex and every effort is being made by the management to make it one of the most delightful events of the week.

The evening will be auspiciously opened with a dinner, after which the floor will be cleared for dancing.

Many prominent folk already have made reservations for tables, and it is expected that there also will be a number of guests from Portland.

Mrs. Ralph Thompson entertained the members of the Ladies Aid society of the Leslie M. E. church, Wednesday afternoon at an enjoyable informal sewing bee, at her home on Lincoln street. Assisting the hostess in serving dainty refreshments were Mrs. Elbert Thompson and Mrs. Charles McIntire.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Brown (Vinnie Wilson) whose wedding occurred recently, have returned from their honeymoon and are at home to their friends.

One of the merry Halloween parties of the early week was that given Tuesday night by Miss Kathleen Walsh, who entertained a group of her classmates at her home on South Commercial street. The evening was spent playing games and music. Readings also were given during the evening by Miss Walsh and Master William Walsh. Later the party closed with a Halloween supper.

Those asked were the Misses Josephine Bross, Mary Gilbert, Mildred Gilbert, Jessie Miles, Ethel Hagel, Alice Spirling, Francis Spirling, Hattie Brill, Gladys Jensen, Clarence Sherman, Lile Dolan, William Walsh and Kathleen Walsh.

Wednesday evening the Endeavor society of the Bungalow Christian church was entertained at the home of Miss Hazel Walling, president of the society. Halloween stories and games followed by refreshments rounded out a merry evening.

Those participating were: Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Downing, the Misses Doris and Ruby Allen, Hulda Runner, Fern and Ethel Davis, Gladys and Mary Hottel, Anna Golan, Hazel Long, Gladys Page, Fannie Watson, Alice Redding, Hazel, Pearl and Beulah Walling and Archie Long, Oeliff Harvey, Everett Walker, Ernest Moore, Alfred West, John Carter and J. Walling.

Complimenting Miss Maude Ludowitz, whose wedding to E. A. Lilly will take place this month, the Misses Blanche Bunell and Daisy Hawkins were hostesses for a miscellaneous shower at their apartments in the Hubbard building on Monday night.

The rooms were prettily decorated in keeping with the Halloween season and the honoree was the recipient of many useful and pretty gifts.

Those bidden were Miss Bernice Johnson, Miss Edith Claxton, the enough, Fay Entwisp, shoua u u Misses Nanna Putnam, Hazel Good-enough, Fay Townsend, Edna McCane, Elizabeth Loreusen, Fay Anthony, Marie Sehman, Daisy Varley, La Verne Thomas, Sylvia McDonald, Pearl Collins, Hazel Cox, Minnie Dodge, Bessie Wilson, Belle Varley, Edith McFarland, Anna Lade, Elinor Harting, Mabel Jones, Anna Hampton, Laura Mc-Loren, Nora Suver, Ruth Needham, Mildred Early and Mina Libby.

At the Presbyterian church Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock the annual praise meeting will be held by the Woman's Missionary society. Mrs. Thoxter of Portland will deliver an address and all members of the church are invited to attend.

Tomorrow night the members of the Yeomen lodge will gather at the Moose hall for their annual home coming. An interesting programme consisting of music and speeches has been arranged for the occasion, which will be closed with a delightful banquet.

Marion County Fruit Growers Invited to Horticultural Show

(Capital Journal Special Service)
Corvallis, Or., Nov. 2.—I wish to extend a special invitation to Marion county fruit growers to come and enjoy our Hort Show with us and get the benefit of our very excellent displays," said Professor C. I. Lewis concerning the Third Annual Show to be held in the men's gymnasium Friday evening and Saturday, next. Competitive exhibits of fruit grown by graduates, some of whom live in Marion county, will be one of the principle features.

The show will be staged in a representation of the early English Tudor garden. It will consist of three groups, pomology, floriculture, and vegetable gardening. The main feature of the pomology display will be a 40x60 ft. floor map of the United States outlined in moss, showing the types, varieties and amounts of fruit grown in each state. There will also be apples of different varieties from thirty states to compare with the Oregon grown fruit. Competitive exhibits from the home orchards of students will also be displayed. Other fruits will be arranged in baskets designed to show the possibilities of fruit decoration both for the housewife and the merchant.

The central feature of the vegetable gardening section will be a model green house showing the types of plants and methods of production in growing plants under glass. Another feature of the display will be market packs of leading vegetable products of Oregon and district markets. The main display will be grouped about broccoli, Oregon's new and promising money vegetable crop.

Chrysanthemums will feature the floral display. This alone says Professor Lewis will be worth to many people all the sacrifice it requires to come to the show. The decorative possibilities of Oregon's ornamental plants will be exemplified for the benefit of home makers and home owners.

"I hope our growers will feel," concluded Professor Lewis, "that they can come and spend the day with us as our guests and at the same time gain a more comprehensive idea of the vast and wonderful possibilities of Oregon horticulture."

The washerywoman has a bare-knuckle fight for existence.

Those participating were: Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Downing, the Misses Doris and Ruby Allen, Hulda Runner, Fern and Ethel Davis, Gladys and Mary Hottel, Anna Golan, Hazel Long, Gladys Page, Fannie Watson, Alice Redding, Hazel, Pearl and Beulah Walling and Archie Long, Oeliff Harvey, Everett Walker, Ernest Moore, Alfred West, John Carter and J. Walling.

M'CALL AND RICHARD BUY MADISON SQUARE

Jimmy Johnston Due to Hit the Skids in the Very Near Future

By H. C. Hamilton
(United Press staff correspondent)
New York, Nov. 2.—Jimmy Johnston, who has had so much to do with boxing bouts at Madison Square Garden that his name has come to be a synonym for the big enclosure, is just about ready to take his seat on the greased skids.

Some time today Edward E. McCall, who is receiver for the Garden expects to come to terms with Tex Rickard and Samuel McCracken, promoters extraordinary, and these two will come in to active charge of all bouts at the Garden.

McCall has announced he is going to depose Johnston as matchmaker for the show corporation, lessees of the Garden Athletic club, and it is all because Jimmy did not want to make an accounting to the liking of McCall. Also McCall is displeased because Johnston didn't go through with the Moha-Weinert bout, which caused the boxing commission to order a suspension of the Garden shows and to fine the Garden Athletic club $1,000.

McCracken and Rickard, when they sign the papers, are going to inherit the Moha-Weinert affair, whether they want it or not, and it will be the first bout to be staged in the garden. Rickard and McCracken are understood to have promised that they will stage this match and some say they even have agreed to pay part of the fine assessed against the Garden Athletic club.

Are Great Managers

Before Rickard and McCracken can stage their bouts they will have to go through the motions of organizing an athletic club and will have to apply for a license at the boxing commission. Jimmy Johnston is apt to make a fuss when this time arrives, as it is understood his contract for the conduct of Garden bouts has another year to run. He is now in disfavor with the boxing commission because he failed to show up at a meeting of the commission in response to a subpoena.

McCracken and Rickard have been associated for many years in various ventures, among them being the monster affair at Reno in 110 when Jack Johnson won the heavyweight title from James J. Jeffries.

Rickard and McCracken startled the pugilist world by offering a purse of $101,000 for this and coming out of it with a huge profit.

It was Rickard also who staged the bout at Goldfield, Nev., between Joe Gans and Battling Nelson offering a purse that in those days was considered ridiculous.

The fight attracted an enormous crowd and Rickard was a big winner. His last effort was the Willard-Moran bout, in which he was associated with McCracken and which netted him a neat profit. Rickard's long record of promoting bouts shows not one unsuccessful affair.

Rickard is said to be contemplating a match between Charley Weinert, local heavyweight, and Jess Willard for the heavyweight championship. Johnston had been trying to arrange a fight between Frank Moran and Fred Fulton, but this bout is now considered definitely off. Ike Morgan, manager of Moran, has a strong interest in such a bout to Henry Sherman of St. Paul and an attempt is being made to stage it on Thanksgiving Day.

W. M. Smith, county school superintendent, is sending out letters to the parent-teacher associations of the county calling a meeting in Salem on November 11, in the Salem high school. Among the speakers who will be present on this occasion will be Mrs. T. W. McMath of Portland, who is president of the Mother's Congress and also the state parent-teacher's association.

The petition of Mary Rees, widow of Philip Rees, for an order setting aside a former decree of the court which determined certain property as exempt from execution by law was granted today by Judge Bushey. Her petition showed there was property that came under the law other than that mentioned in the report of Davis Rees, administrator of the estate. In addition to the former list, Judge Bushey granted two horses, a wagon, buggy, plow, binder, mower, harrows, and other minor articles as necessary to her support.

The estate of Peter Goodnecht, who died in Marion county June 6, 1916, aged 79, was filed for probate with the county court today. The estate is valued at $8,000. John Goodnecht, son, is

The president's appeal was one for the cause of the "common people," the "root and very foundations of the nation."

"I have seen things in the last few weeks that have touched me deeply," he said. "I have seen poorly dressed women holding children in their arms look up with tears in their eyes and thank us."

"Why should they do that to me? I do not know, unless they see that I have tried to do them justice."

He said perhaps the reason was that the poorer people had so long been trained to believe men in high places gave them no consideration that they regarded anyone who tried to do them justice was their friend.

PRESIDENT TELLS

At one point the president said: "I am not saying this in a spirit of indictment. But the real trouble is that business has been under the direction of too small a body of men. We have a short hand expression for that small body—we call it 'Wall Street.' And now, that isn't fair because there are men in and about 'Wall Street' who have a great deal of vision and wisdom and public spirit and who don't intend to anything but public service in the things they are undertaking. It is not a fair term, but we have adopted it, yes, and we will have to use it."

"Because," the president continued, "there are other men in Wall Street who have no vision, who have no thought except for their own interests, who have no care for any part of government except to control it, who are not interested unless they are consulted, who do not believe it is safe to do anything without consulting them, who do not believe that there is anybody outside of their circle who knows enough to conduct anything that exceeds the limits of
